The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and small dark spots, possibly due to age or handling. A horizontal crease is visible near the top edge of the page. An insurance agent remarks that persons
 using gas, gasoline or coal-oil stoves during

 fire insurance policy. It is not sufficient to use such as attached to it, should at once secure one. A moment of attention to this may save years of toil and prevent the loss of insurance.

DIED ON THE STREET.

MR. JAMES NORWORTHY SUGGESTS TO AN ATTACK OF HEART DISEASE.

He Fought Against the Subtle, Varied but Successful Business Career—Interesting History.

Sorely had the excitement occasioned
 by the untimely death of Alex. Harris on Friday morning laid to rest, when the people of this community were a month
 ago, shocked with the announcement that Mr. James Norworthy, a well-known and successful business man, had died on Pineville Street a few minutes before.

Mr. Norworthy, who was one of the oldest inhabitants of Belleville, was about 65 years of age, and was attending to business, but complaining, as he had been
 for some time past, of weakness and an unpleasant feeling about the heart.

At about 11:35 he was seen by Mrs.
 Kenny, who lives on the corner of Pineville
 and Campbell sts., to be standing on Pine-
 ville st., leaning against the fence near
 Dr. Walker's gateway. A few moments
 later he fell to the ground, when Mr.
 Reid, (an employee of Belleville Business
 Co.), Mr. W. W. Walker, Mr. J. H. Walker, Mr. J. H. Walker, and Mr. J. H. Walker, who were in the vicinity, carried the
 deceased man, who was lying on his back,
 into Dr. Walker's residence. The Dr.
 was not at home, but was called, and he
 was summoned, responded and was followed
 a few minutes by Dr. Walker. It was found that the deceased man had died
 from the venerable gentleman's heart;
 his heart had ceased to beat. The visitation of death was to the heart, as there
 was not the slightest contusion of his
 face.

James Norworthy was born in Plymouth, England, on April 27th, 1818, and was consequently in his 75th year of
 age. He came to Belleville in 1833, and after learning the trade of a harnessmaker
 he went to the United States, where he
 years, when he sold out and became captain of the steamboat Prince of Wales,
 which he ran for a number of years. He then became a contractor for supplying
 the Grand Trunk with wood for fuel,
 and during the years of his business he
 to the Grand Trunk and other railways,
 amassing a handsome competence.

It should be mentioned that he served
 his country against the rebels in 1857-8,
 and during the war he was in the army,
 and he was a Conservative and in religion
 a Methodist. His record was a highly favorable one, and he was highly respected in the community. His death,
 though shocking in its suddenness, was not
 unexpected by himself, and his family,
 as he had been for some time past, of
 the subject to many friends of late that
 he expected to be out of this world, owing
 to his trouble.

Mr. Norworthy married, 53 years ago,
 Harriet Furber, daughter of the late Mr.
 Appleby, who survived her husband. Six children were born to them, of whom but
 two survive, namely, Mr. Henry Blocker,
 and Mr. Charles W. Norworthy, of this city.

Mr. G. H. Pope spent yesterday in the city.

Miss Kerry, of Montreal, who has been visiting Mr. Dr. Farley, returned to her home in Montreal.

W. Nelson, Belleville, is visiting friends
 here and his wife has gone to Three Mile
 Bay on a short vacation.—Pho.

Mrs. Strong (nee Miss Rose Denmark) is home on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Strong, of Belleville.

Inspector Johnson left for Ottawa, where
 he will be for the next ten days enroute to the city of the National School.

Mr. Arthur Walbridge and Mr. George
 Holton left by the train last evening for York, which city they expect to make their future home.

Mr. Robert Tannabill, the respected City
 Treasurer, celebrated his sixty-ninth birthday to-day. The Intelligencer extends
 him the warmest congratulations, and best wishes for the future.

Doctor S. A. Spangenberg, a well-known
 oculist, who has opened an office in the city, and whose advertisement will be found
 in another column, comes well recommended. The Belleville, Ont. edition of recent date, contains a very flattering
 testimonial from Mr. A. G. Northrop, a gentleman well known in this city.—

Eleven Financial Institutions Attacked

—Great Fears For The Future.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 7.—This has been a

"blue day" indeed for Chicago. The indications are that many other "blue" days

will succeed it. With banks and business

houses falling all around, confidence shaken

and many more or so tied up or hidden

that it is out of active circulation, the situation

is a most unpleasant one to face.

How much money was withdrawn from

the banks of Chicago to-day and thrown in

great ways into the safety deposit

boxes of the city is not known, but it is estimated that at least one hundred thousand dollars were so deposited.

Nothing was talked of except failures

and runs on the banks. There was a run on the First National Bank, and

on the Merchants' Bank, and on the

THE RECIPROCAL CONVENTION

Springer of Illinois Wants Reciprocity

With All the Continent

St. Paul, June 7.—It was in St. Paul

before Chairman Bristle called the Inter-

national Reciprocity Convention to order

to-day. The committee on Permanent

Organization reported. James Fisher, M. P.

of Winnipeg for chairman; L. B. Kelly, St.

Paul, vice chairman; Dr. J. Magnus of

Grand Forks, secretary; and J. H. Beck of

St. Paul, and S. Thompson of Duluth, and

C. N. Bell of Winnipeg as associate secretaries.

V. S. Sweeney, chairman of Committee

on Resolutions, read the report of the committee and spoke briefly in its support.

The resolutions were all the subjects of

reciprocity, deep waterways and transport.

A resolution was adopted after some discussion.

A mass meeting was held last evening

at the National Hotel, and the report of the committee was read. The report was entirely favorable to the cause of

reciprocity, and the committee was

re-elected. The committee will meet again to-day at the National Hotel.

THE GENERAL.

It was the lady. Her color glowed brightly; perhaps she was conscious that female, and British prejudice might make themselves apparent. But the curate was gentle, and altogether too far removed from self-consciousness to remember her. He rose from his chair trembling, for he was very weak. No one had ever been to visit him before. His eyes were dim behind his spectacles. He was suddenly conscious of a dizzy bewilderment and tottered a little.

The girl stretched out her beautiful helpful hand. "Sit down, please," she said, smiling back, but faintly.

"Yes, and I came to see, because Melinda told me. Overwork, I reckon." She sat down on the only chair in the room beside his own and looked at him steadily. There was no help for him beneath the scrutiny of those eyes. "I guess you'll be better off for a holiday. The March and the daffodils are all on fire down in the country."

He shook his head. She caught his wordless objection with quick intuition. "Yes, yes, understand; but there's a little farmhouse down Devonshire way I know about where it won't cost you more than living here."

He looked at her with speechless gratitude. He was sick for a breath of pure air, distressed and troubled with the hapless labors of his lot. Only a breathing space, a little hail at an ope in the desert, and why not?

"Mercy, now! they don't want you in heaven just yet. Why, there's years of work in it if you will take care of yourself. Say you'll go and I'll be with you all the way. The curate's eye looked down at him with persuasion that would not be deflected, and without consciousness, druck of the satisfaction of that plan, as he had done before.

The curate came back from his holidays a month later with a suspicion of roundness about him and more than a hint of a new suit.

Melinda made a high festival in his honor. An elaborate tea was spread for him, with muffins and other delicacies. The General himself was attired in a new suit. Perceiving that the curate was not absent at her bidding, she drew his attention to the matter. "What do you think of my gown?"

"Oh, it's beautiful," he said absently, while his glance rested on a graceful vase full of scarlet anemones.

"The young lady, Melinda," answered the General with mollified sharpness.

"It is a fine gown," he stammered, "Oh, ever so well; more smiling than ever was. She sings over 'or patting all day long, and the picture, it is a fine finished, and there's a young man as comes and looks at it every day."

"A young man?"

"He comes to see the curate, just over from America."

But it was evident Melinda had something on her mind. She made a lament of breaking up the hearth and looking into the kettle, and at last, with one hand on the door, she remarked with assumed carelessness: "He comes to see the curate, just over from America, and he's got a kerchief with two roses, and he brings 'or bookies every day."

The curate pointed to the scarlet anemones: "his hand trembled. 'Are these from his bouquet?"

Melinda nodded and looked away. "And it's my belief as 'or curate's" her and she said so smiling."

The blow went home. There was a moment's pause and the curate spoke with more than ordinary gentleness: "That will do, Melinda. I will ring if I require anything more."

The countess with the carriage continued to call regularly, and the curate could hear the young lady strolling blithely to her door as he kept steadily up the stairs. She gave him her cherry 'good morning' or 'good evening' when she was unaccompanied, and invited him into her sitting room once day to show him the progress of her picture. She mentioned his name about her health, and his health and the way he had passed his holiday, but her eyes did not read anything but a cold indifference. The pleasantness of a new happiness was upon her, and she seemed to be radiating happiness or brightness on the curate. But the curate held aloof in a measure from any further kindness and she did not understand his coldness.

In due course of time the young lady announced to Melinda that she was engaged, and that she would remove from her lodgings. The General received the announcement in stony silence. "Have's anything else to say to me, Melinda?"

"You should have took up with something better than a cracker that wears kid gloves and shiny boots. Let 'em, Mr. Curate, thought you'd make any account of a man's outside."

The curate's eyes flashed ominously. "Melinda, you forget yourself."

"Not me! Why, it is as if you forgot yourself with accounts of 'or great and small. Any one as thinks as 'er meant to be 'ave as 'er look! Melinda's expressive nose took a more pronounced upward curve than ever before as she went out."

And to the young lady, thus rudely awakened, was left to realize that she had done something wrong, something that could not be put right. Why had she not comprehended sooner? A grave, and look came into her sweet eyes and she sighed. She might not even say she was sorry; the only thing to do was to pass out of his life silently.

Many years went by, and in the course of them Mr. Tilley was gathered to his fathers. Then began a renewed time of prosperity for No. 17 and Melinda's absolute ruin. The children grew up satisfactorily and were, one by one, carefully launched on the world under the General's auspices. Many lodgers came again, and some went, but the curate still remained in the attic.

A little legacy had fallen in to him and Melinda occasionally ordered butler's meat for the evening meal, much to her satisfaction. Preferment to peaceful country rectories had more than once been offered him, but he always declined to change his ways of life. He knew his work, and, more, at least, of the people would rather than he forsook them. He was prematurely old and gray, but yet talked stoutly and late in that harvest field where so many tares abound. And when he took a fine chill in his winter time and slowly drifted down to the sea of death, Melinda watched day and night by his bedside. And when he had delivered up his brave soul and lay serene in his last sleep, she placed a withered flower in his hand. It had once been a scarlet anemone.

THE VILLAGE ALIEN.

Blower ran in upon the blazing stuff, he had torn of his coat and wrapped it around his face, and he knelt and knocked the bricks far out into the gravel walk and the grass. Two women were now beside him. It looked as if the house would go; the flames were burning merrily. That meant that most of the town would go, for a fine down wind was springing up. They brought buckets of water and a ladder, and mean while Blower was whipping the fire with a shovel that he had caught from one of them. He contrived to command the women without losing a second; he made them pour water from the floor above; he fought like a hero. Suddenly a memory of the barbed wire clear and sharp with him as he had remembered them for years; the spirit of war swelled like a trumpet's note within the little man, and his soul responded to its own cry for salvation of the flames of the town.

It was a sight to see, the alien, old Blower in the world growing light, his clothes burning upon him like a furnace, and his face blackened, fighting at the close quarters of a death struggle, an enemy that was not his enemy, but a victory that did not save him!

The cry of light was pouring over the summer each in distress, slating warlike as when the last flame flickered out, and the children fell amid the cinders as if he were gone.

The crying women—on a white-hot black—out over him. The old woman started to lift him, but her mistress caught her arm.

"Aunt Cindy," she said, "take his feet," and she pushed the servant aside, and stopped over the ghastly form.

"Miss Jane," said the other, "I kin tell him by me self. You're too trembly!"

"I'll help him into my arms," said Jane herself, "Aunt Cindy," was Jane McGrath's answer; and together they lifted their burden.

"Into the spare room," said she in the hall. Her voice was clear and hard, while her face, falling like a quiet rain on Blower's face, were making little white blots and streaks there.

In the beginning of the conflict, Mrs. McGrath had set her five year old daughter on the gravel walk by the front gate, out of harm's way, and told her to stay there. There she still sat, crying loudly.

"Miss Jane," said the other, "I kin tell him by me self. You're too trembly!"

In the beginning of the conflict, Mrs. McGrath had set her five year old daughter on the gravel walk by the front gate, out of harm's way, and told her to stay there. There she still sat, crying loudly.

"Miss Jane," said the other, "I kin tell him by me self. You're too trembly!"

"I'll help him into my arms," said Jane herself, "Aunt Cindy," was Jane McGrath's answer; and together they lifted their burden.

"Into the spare room," said she in the hall. Her voice was clear and hard, while her face, falling like a quiet rain on Blower's face, were making little white blots and streaks there.

UNIONISTS MEET IN LONDON.

SALISBURY PREDICTS A COLLAPSE

SALISBURY TO WASHINGTON.

Picking a collar under the Ancient Bazaar of the Empire, which if continued would bring the Empire of the Unionists to a standstill, the Unionists met in London, June 12.

The first in the series of meetings designed by the Unionists to cause all London against Home Rule was held in the Royal Surrey Theatre last evening.

The Marquis of Salisbury was the most notable speaker. He illustrated his opinion of Mr. Gladstone's action towards Ireland with an elaborate metaphor based on the account of the recent disaster in Washington.

The Premier, he said, was signing a call under the ancient fabric of the Empire. He was working carefully at the men under the old fabric in Washington.

If he should be allowed to continue his task, the old fabric of the Empire would be torn to shreds, and the Unionists would be crushed down around the heads of the destructive Liberal party.

At present everything tended to favor the cause of the Unionists. The Liberal party were making against the dismemberment of the Empire. Several Liberal members of Parliament had already refused to follow their ministers.

The Irish leaders were busy quarrelling among themselves. There were signs on every side that the Liberal party were breaking. The political conditions were vanishing slowly, but certainly.

London, June 13.—John Redmond, leader of the Unionists, has returned from London, where he visited the Irish political prisoners. He says that John Redmond was deeply impressed by the beginning of the warm weather. Wilson, who was sentenced to penal servitude for life on account of his participation in the Fenian conspiracy, has rallied slightly, although still weak and emaciated. Mr. Redmond is reluctant to the conditions of his visit at Portland and his conversation with the prisoners.

AN ENGINEER BLOWN TO PIECES.
 His Head Found 30 Feet from His Truck—Four Others Killed.

St. Johnsbury, Vt., June 13.—A boiler in a steam engine owned by the New England Railroad Company, exploded at 4:20 this afternoon with terrible effect. William Fisher, the engineer, was blown 10 feet, striking on the end of a log.

His head and shoulders were found 30 feet from the engine. Albert Greene, a marker, and Lewis John, who was hauling in logs, were also killed. The boiler being badly mutilated. Two others were killed.

The cause of the explosion is supposed to have been low water in the boiler. The main portion of the boiler was blown 425 feet.

NOT A HOUSE IN THE TOWN.
 Two Thousand People Hounded Homeless by a Storm.

PUEBLO, June 13.—The most disastrous storm that has ever visited the part of Mexico is reported from the town of Puebla. The entire town was destroyed, every residence and building in the place being swept away by the wind.

The town had a population of about 200,000 people, all of whom were made homeless. About thirty persons were injured, but no fatalities are reported. The storm also destroyed the crops.

DISABLED IN LAKE MICHIGAN.
 The Wabington Machine Riggers the Michigan Reapers.

CHICAGO, June 13.—The steamer Muskogee of the Goodrich Transportation Line, which left here at 7:45 o'clock last night, was disabled while en route to Evanston by the breaking of the walking-beam and the subsequent collision of her engine machinery. There were 30 passengers on the steamer.

The engine crew of Evanston heard the signals of distress and telephoned for help. The steamer was towed to shore after midnight and arrived here this morning about daylight.

A PECULIAR CASE.

BUFFALO, June 13.—Patrick Lander, a carpenter living at 678 Elk street, left his home Saturday evening on his way to town with a friend. He returned about 10 o'clock, and was found lying on his back in his left hand, carrying his right arm round his neck, and very near from loss of blood. He was sent to the Emergency Hospital, where he now lies in a critical condition.

Lander said he started for home about midnight Saturday night on an engine. He remembered falling from the engine and then the next thing he knew he was standing in the hallway of his house with his arm in his hand.

THE LAW AVENGED.
 John L. Demond Electrocuted for Double Murder.

STO. N.Y., June 13.—John L. Demond was electrocuted yesterday. He was convicted of the murder of his wife, Mary, and his cousin, John C. Demond.

He and his wife had been in the apartment, No. 600 Third Avenue, New York city. He was indicted for the murder of his wife and his cousin, and for the murder of his wife and his cousin.

Demond went to the gallows on Oct. 3, 1891, and killed the woman and her sister. He was sentenced to hang for the murder of his wife and his cousin.

AN ITALIAN PRY ARRESTED.
 Plans of French Forts Found in His Possession.

NICE, June 13.—Archer Cipriani, relative of the notorious socialist of the same name, was arrested at a spy in this city yesterday. He had been carrying the plans of the Italian fortifications and his work was also anticipated when he was taken into custody.

His baggage was found to contain several French forts on the Italian frontier. These, he acknowledged, were intended for the use of the Italian Government.

TRAVELER COLLARED.
 CHICAGO, Pa., June 13.—Two travelers on the Middle West Coast Railroad collided at a speed of 15 miles an hour near Waterville last night, and 15 persons were seriously hurt.

BEHIND THE SEIZURES.

The Court asked for the reason whether the seizures were made by the authority of the B.B.B. and before I used one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for sick headaches.

ERIE D. HAINES,
 Lakeview, Ont.

A Close Resemblance.
 Many symptoms of Canadian cholera are similar to those of the real Asiatic cholera, such as vomiting, purging, intense pain, etc. For all these symptoms Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is a safe and sure specific. Price 30 cents at druggists.

A Wonderful Cure.
 Mr. David Smith, Co. H, 1st Regt., 7th Div., 1st Army Corps, writes: "I was afflicted with cholera for several days, and was very much distressed. I tried many remedies, but none did me any good. I then tried Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, and after taking one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for sick headaches."

Consumption is far the most prevalent in Ireland than in other England or Wales.

THE VILLAGE ALIEN.

When they got married, Mrs. Fombroke remarked to Mrs. Kitchen that it was curious to see two such good, dumb, clever,
say-nothing bodies marry each other; but
then, she added, perhaps it would have been more curious yet if they had not.

Of course Andy accepted Blossier in exactly Jane's spirit. He felt a little as a loss
as to how to conduct himself with a French-
man, finding himself without social traditions on that point; but he had the best
will in the world to adapt himself as well
as he could to any new etiquette required.
Neither he nor Jane had a touch of the usual sore contempt for ways new to them
— a little may a large spirit be dependent
on experience and intellectuality.

— A little may a large spirit be dependent
on experience and intellectuality.
The evening after they had first persuaded Blossier to sup with them, Jane, her
curtains pulled into nearly human trousers,
but previously dreaming French dreams,
lay in her trundle-bed; and close by, Jane
and Andy sat by the window, cooling off,
and, as they said, talking things over. Jane
opened up the subject she had had so long
in her heart.

"Fears, Andy, like Mr. Blossier's too good
to do a single work all the time.
Of course with a Frenchman things are different,
but seems like if he can teach Jane
he can teach others."
"It seems like it would be more fitting,"
said Andy, smiling at the idea.
"It's called a smart thing to know French;
there's Babu Tucker."

"Hush, Andy, I'll tell you all about it," responded Andy again.
"Yes, I heard Judge Caldwell say years
ago that he was a Frenchman."
"It's a bad time now, Jane."
"I know that, Andy, but we can just try and get him started. The more over, and
people go to educate their children quick
if they're going to 'all."
"French is easy."

"Well, Blossier's right here, and a heap of
house holders out would have been down if he hadn't been. It won't cost much. He'll be better off, anyhow, than working all the time like Babu Tucker. You talk to your brother Ben, Andy; he'll
like to have the girls as smart as Jane's;
he concluded the self-sacrificing Jane with a sigh."

Two years from this night Judge Caldwell was saying to a guest, a lawyer from Tennessee: "Yes, sir, Strathbore was
one of our people, old and young, accomplished in the French tongue, sir, than any town—a larger proportion, sir, so some-plished—than any town in the state. There are numerous children in Strathbore that speak French with as good a command as any people at their play, sir, sometimes. In fact, there is a little sloop here about the house some-
where now that I heard saying—'Von, Lida,
where's that pleasanter of yours? the
judge interrupted himself to call a servant
bringing the door."

"She done sleep, Judge."
"Very well; never mind."
"Well, sir, I want to you hear that little darkey talk French in the morning. It sounds comic, it does indeed. She picked it up from my grandchildren. Strathbore
always had a literary taste. This country
has produced a large proportion of the great men of middle Tennessee. Mr. Hunter—a large proportion even take the whole state
together, sir—and owing to the circumstances I have related to you a frailty in the French language and literature sprang up
among our people—ladies and children, that is childy—I'll say, sir, almost as many of them have read 'Corinne,' sir, Madame de Stael's masterpiece, as are familiar with the Bible or 'St. Remy' of our own Miss Evans."

The Judge spoke truly. It had come
about that learning French was the game
the town most affected; and Blossier was,
of course, the teacher.
The tone about him had not greatly
changed; a familiarity with French had not decreased Strathbore's sense of the importance in the existence of a French-
man; but the face of life had greatly altered. Blossier, stimulated by the gentle prodding of Jane M. Grath he had studied
to fit himself for his new calling, and it
had come about that he had acquired a little more simple interest in exercising his
few words, (and bless him!) was enjoying the society of his kindred.

Moreover, though the tone of the town
about him had not much altered, nevertheless his tone in his was necessarily, in the
new circumstances, more friendly and considerate, and that deeply touched and
pleased the little man.
He still lived by himself, but now it was in the 'office' in Mrs. Fombroke's parlour,
and he was within the pale of civilization, and
could be looked after if he fell sick. Jane
had not rested until that possibility was provided for. But fate led to pass the possibilities scrupulously provided for;
Blossier had never spent a day in bed since
he had recovered from his illness; when one autumn the dear Jane herself sickened and
died, and was laid away in that shallow
village always growing, growing,
silently and unobtrusively, by Strathbore's
side.

Poor Andy McGrath was indeed left, as Aunt Cindy said, like the half of a pair of shoes. Yes, that was it; he was a member of a family, and he was a member of a
family, and he was a member of a family,
for instance, a something to provoke the
mirth of Oshpays.

How strange a thing, still strange in the life of Strathbore, that a creature so ineffective, living in dumb, helpless, good faith,
and was laid away in that shallow
village always growing, growing,
silently and unobtrusively, by Strathbore's
side.

At the funeral, after Jane was laid in the ground and the earth well heaped over her,
Andy turned his poor, bewildered, pain-
dashed eyes upon the faces about him, and
amid their worried assumption of solemnity
beneath which the usual easy interest in
the conversation was to be seen, and he saw, he saw Blossier, his features working convulsively, as he gazed with eyes that
did not see upon the hideousness of the thing.

It was not in Andy to feel resentment
against others; perhaps he too realized, in
the depths of his worthless consciousness,
that poor humanity could hardly exist except as it was "well wadded with stupidity,"
but his heart went out to Blossier,
and was eased a little at the sight of his
face.

He went to him and took his hand, and
without a word the two men, the two pitiful old children, went together for some months went by and Strathbore became
used to seeing them together, and
had almost ceased to gossip about the fact. Andy said, "Andy showed, when one June day went out to Blossier, and certainly."

The week before, Blossier had overheard
one of his pupils, a middle-aged, unmarried
lady, in his class, to her nearest neighbor that it was "plum" that was the way
for Mrs. M. Grath's little girl was running with nobody but Andy. "Andy to look
what she was doing," and she was so old
also didn't know what she was doing, and that was her opinion that poor Miss Jane would rather they had a step-mother
to have them left with no nains' at all like that."

BELEVILLE, THURSDAY JUNE 15 1893. AN UNFOUNDED ASSERTION.

The spirit of intolerance which the Rev. Dr. Douglas had manifested in his address at the Conference in Ontario during the two years previous, was for the third time exemplified by him in his speech before the Toronto conference last week; and, let us add, the same intolerance which he had shown in 1891 and 1892 was shown in those of '93. "For fifty years," said he, "no Methodist had occupied a position in the judiciary of Ontario." This is a direct attack on the Dominion Government, who appoint the Judges, and how wholly unfounded it is, the following facts within our knowledge will show:

Judge Duggan, county of York, was a Methodist.
Judge Dean, of Victoria, was a Methodist.
Judge Ross was a Methodist. His father was a Methodist minister who may not be a Methodist himself, but he was a Methodist.
Judge Merritt, Prince Edward, was a Methodist.
Judge Carman, of Stormont, et al, was a Methodist.
Judge Pringle, of Stormont, et al, was a Methodist.
Judge Falconbridge was a Methodist. That others of the judges are, or were when appointed, Methodists, there is no doubt.

What, under such circumstances, can be thought, but that the Rev. gentleman's great mental powers have become so impaired by age that his defects of memory have led him into making an incorrect statement; and that, founded on an imaginary state of facts, his political bias has caused him to make an unfounded attack on his political opponents, which can have no other result than his own humiliation.

A Westbrook Lady's Case.
WESTBROOK, Ont., June 12th.—One of the most popular ladies of this district and one who has been for years a worker in the church as her health would allow, has recently, after six years of terrible suffering from kidney troubles, been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Her case was one of the most painful in our knowledge, as she had tried all remedies, and interviewed many famous specialists, and had tried treatment at Kingston Hospital, only to be discharged as incurable. She was quite helpless, and resigned herself to a few more years of horrible suffering, when by chance without much hesitation in a cure, she tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. The result was taken, in all, six boxes, and is now entirely cured and able to devote herself to her duties with youthful energy. No more pain, and has said to your correspondent that the proprietors of the remedy do not advertise half enough. "It should be proclaimed from the house-tops" she said. "I am positively convinced that it is a certain cure for all forms of kidney disease. No one can thank its discoverer more than I."

The Greatest Yet
In the medical line for the cure of kidney troubles and deafness, it is now getting introduced into the market, and placed on sale by the drug trade. There is nothing more nearly than a sure cure, and nothing more agreeable than to see a man or woman down on their knees or ladies' black dresses. Many remedies have been offered from time to time to stop this evil, but none have been so successful as this. A special one of the world's greatest specialists and specialists in kidney diseases, Vienna, Austria, has been successful in discovering Dandruff, which is now on sale everywhere. It is a sure cure, quick and sure, and is at the same time perfectly safe. Have your druggist tell you where you can get it, and you will find that all may know how successful it is.

SMELTING WORKS.

A DEPUTATION ADDRESS THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

At the meeting of the County Council this morning, Mayor Wallace addressed the Council with a view of securing an appropriation for the establishment of smelting works in this County, for which a number of cities are now making tempting bids. A recent Act of Parliament has granted a grant of £100,000 to the Government, and only cities were allowed to give bonuses to them. The speaker believed that Belleville offered better advantages for the establishment of smelting works, by reason of the large and valuable deposits of iron ore and lime stone in the proximity, than any other point in Canada. While the County could not give a bonus towards such works, they could give material assistance by granting a sum of money for prospecting purposes, by paying the expenses of deputations, and introducing the iron wealth of the county to capitalists, who could be tempted to invest their money where they were sure of permanent profit. In concluding his remarks the speaker said that what would be in the interests of the city would be in the interests of the county.

Ald. Wainman in a few words endorsed Mayor Wallace's remarks, expressing the belief that the Council would give the matter careful consideration.

Ald. Poulton said that he hoped to secure such a prize as smelting works, and there was no reason why it should not be established, if not in Belleville, at least some place in the county.

The speaker said that Peterborough, Kingston and other places in the iron district were moving in the direction of securing works, but of all points in Canada Belleville had the most advantages. As chairman of the Industrial Committee the speaker had had several communications with capitalists, and while all were alive to the importance of smelting works, none were sufficiently acquainted with the deposits to be secured that they would be profitable.

The speaker said that the County was asked to vote a sum of money. He assured the Council that if the County did their duty they need have no fear of the City not doing theirs. The development of the iron industry was in the interest of the Iron County.

City Clerk D. B. Robertson, who has intimate knowledge of the iron wealth of the County, made a strong plea in favor of an appropriation by the County for the encouragement of its development. He pointed out the County's advantages in the development of the iron industry were favorably progressive conditions. There was no country in the world richer in iron ore than Canada and no country in Canada more favored in this respect than Hastings.

Ald. Wainman endorsed the remarks of the speaker, pointing out the necessity of Hastings County introducing its mineral wealth to the outside world, as a means of encouraging manufacturing.

Mr. Haggerty moved, seconded by Mr. Vermilyea, that the matter be referred to the Committee on ways and means.

Mr. McFarlane and the Warden thanked the delegation for their attendance, promising their request would be taken into careful consideration.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

Run-off Near Shanawabie—No Person Hurt—Damage $1000.

The morning express from the east, due here at 2:40 a. m., ran off the track between Shanawabie and the Milltown bridge. Fortunately none of the passengers were injured and the only damage was to the engine and the baggage car, which was badly smashed.

Assistance was sent from Belleville, the passengers being transferred to a train passing at the time. The engine and baggage car remained until the morning, when they were hauled off the track.

SMELTING WORKS.

A DEPUTATION ADDRESS THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

At the meeting of the County Council this morning, Mayor Wallace addressed the Council with a view of securing an appropriation for the establishment of smelting works in this County, for which a number of cities are now making tempting bids. A recent Act of Parliament has granted a grant of £100,000 to the Government, and only cities were allowed to give bonuses to them. The speaker believed that Belleville offered better advantages for the establishment of smelting works, by reason of the large and valuable deposits of iron ore and lime stone in the proximity, than any other point in Canada. While the County could not give a bonus towards such works, they could give material assistance by granting a sum of money for prospecting purposes, by paying the expenses of deputations, and introducing the iron wealth of the county to capitalists, who could be tempted to invest their money where they were sure of permanent profit. In concluding his remarks the speaker said that what would be in the interests of the city would be in the interests of the county.

Ald. Wainman in a few words endorsed Mayor Wallace's remarks, expressing the belief that the Council would give the matter careful consideration.

Ald. Poulton said that he hoped to secure such a prize as smelting works, and there was no reason why it should not be established, if not in Belleville, at least some place in the county.

The speaker said that Peterborough, Kingston and other places in the iron district were moving in the direction of securing works, but of all points in Canada Belleville had the most advantages. As chairman of the Industrial Committee the speaker had had several communications with capitalists, and while all were alive to the importance of smelting works, none were sufficiently acquainted with the deposits to be secured that they would be profitable.

The speaker said that the County was asked to vote a sum of money. He assured the Council that if the County did their duty they need have no fear of the City not doing theirs. The development of the iron industry was in the interest of the Iron County.

City Clerk D. B. Robertson, who has intimate knowledge of the iron wealth of the County, made a strong plea in favor of an appropriation by the County for the encouragement of its development. He pointed out the County's advantages in the development of the iron industry were favorably progressive conditions. There was no country in the world richer in iron ore than Canada and no country in Canada more favored in this respect than Hastings.

Ald. Wainman endorsed the remarks of the speaker, pointing out the necessity of Hastings County introducing its mineral wealth to the outside world, as a means of encouraging manufacturing.

Mr. Haggerty moved, seconded by Mr. Vermilyea, that the matter be referred to the Committee on ways and means.

Mr. McFarlane and the Warden thanked the delegation for their attendance, promising their request would be taken into careful consideration.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

Run-off Near Shanawabie—No Person Hurt—Damage $1000.

The morning express from the east, due here at 2:40 a. m., ran off the track between Shanawabie and the Milltown bridge. Fortunately none of the passengers were injured and the only damage was to the engine and the baggage car, which was badly smashed.

Assistance was sent from Belleville, the passengers being transferred to a train passing at the time. The engine and baggage car remained until the morning, when they were hauled off the track.

Ald. Wainman endorsed the remarks of the speaker, pointing out the necessity of Hastings County introducing its mineral wealth to the outside world, as a means of encouraging manufacturing.

Evening News of the 13th inst.Andy Henderson, of Kingston, formerly a well-known Toronto hotelier, is in the city. He is a brother of G. M. Henderson, the Young street auctioneer."How are things in Kingston?" asked
the news."They are all right in Kingston, but I'm here to make a little while in Belleville," said Henderson.Neville & McWhinney, my

leville Gas Company."Andy's story of how he had been frozen out of hotel-keeping is a peculiar one. He kept the Belmore, because he was a Conservative, however, the "Globe," he says,
determined to take him out. His claim
against Carman, who owned the Belmore,
is that he had been frozen out when he had
the hotel under a sub-lease which he claims
was still in force."Andy," said Mr. Henderson, "the Grit
commissioners would not even give me time
to sell out. As soon as the first of May
was over, something like I was selling liquor, they charged me with selling without a license. They had no proof but they simply sent people to the bar. Well, then they came to me and offered to withdraw the charge if I would give up the key.""Then hotel keeping in Belleville isn't
very agreeable."

The claim against the Gas Company
arises out of a disputed account.

ANNUAL GAMES.

A lively time at the Institution.

The annual games in connection with
the Institution Athletic Association were held yesterday afternoon on the Institution
grounds. The heat was somewhat oppressive, but the muscular lads who have won
the football championship of this section
did not mind a copious flow of perspiration.
The girls, too, entered into the contest to
which they were admitted with much spirit,
and did not seem to care for the heat. The games began at 2 p.m., when all the officers, employees and students of the school
were on the ground. A good many visitors
from the city and vicinity were also interested spectators of the amusing events of
the afternoon, among whom we observed
Rev. Messrs. Burke, George and Marshall.
The grounds were in excellent condition,
every arrangement having been made by Superintendent Douglas and his assistants. The judges were: Mr. M. Walker, Miss Anna
Gallagher, Miss M. Ball, Mr. J. G. Smith
and Mr. J. O. Ball. Superintendent
Madden acted as a table with the prize
before him, and distributed the same to the fortunate winners. He also had a general oversight of the whole proceedings.

SMELTING WORKS.

The Discussion Yesterday Given Warm to the Iron Smelting Works.

A discussion given by the Board of Trade yesterday afternoon, called on the County Council with the object of securing assistance in developing the mineral resources of this county, with the ultimate object of attracting capitalists for the establishment of smelting works. Mr. J. Parker Thomas, Secretary of the Board, said that it was very desirable that Hastings County should retain within its borders its wealth. Pittsburgh and other cities were moving to the west. The duty on iron ore practically shut out American competition, and while there were only three or four iron mills in Canada there was a market for the output of twenty. In a case where so much benefit would accrue to the county the speaker pressed upon the Council the advisability of extending from assistance toward the development of its mineral wealth, which was now lying practically dormant for the want of capital.

The pupils of Glen St. school presented Miss Caldwell with three handsome bound volumes yesterday afternoon, accompanied by the following address: "Dear Teachers.—This being the eve of your departure from among us, as our teacher we feel we cannot let this opportunity pass without in some manner showing our appreciation of you. You have been nurturing in your efforts to instill into our minds the principles of truth and honor, and if we have by our conduct tried your patience sometimes, believe us it was from a want of thought more than from intention. As a small token of our esteem we wish you to accept of these books, and we hope that in your new field of labor in the far west you will not forget the pupils who today, with much regret, bid you an affectionate farewell. Signed on behalf of the school, VIVIAN GILL, ANNE PERKINS, FLORENCE STANLEY, Miss Elvira read the address and the books were taken by Miss Caldwell, Addie Prince and Lee Moore.

Iron ore shipped from North Hastings to different parts of the world. The duty on iron ore practically shut out American competition, and while there were only three or four iron mills in Canada there was a market for the output of twenty. In a case where so much benefit would accrue to the county the speaker pressed upon the Council the advisability of extending from assistance toward the development of its mineral wealth, which was now lying practically dormant for the want of capital.

The Children Regulate the Service of the Marriage.

The pupils of Glen St. school presented Miss Caldwell with three handsome bound volumes yesterday afternoon, accompanied by the following address: "Dear Teachers.—This being the eve of your departure from among us, as our teacher we feel we cannot let this opportunity pass without in some manner showing our appreciation of you. You have been nurturing in your efforts to instill into our minds the principles of truth and honor, and if we have by our conduct tried your patience sometimes, believe us it was from a want of thought more than from intention. As a small token of our esteem we wish you to accept of these books, and we hope that in your new field of labor in the far west you will not forget the pupils who today, with much regret, bid you an affectionate farewell. Signed on behalf of the school, VIVIAN GILL, ANNE PERKINS, FLORENCE STANLEY, Miss Elvira read the address and the books were taken by Miss Caldwell, Addie Prince and Lee Moore.

THE WIDOW SPRAWL.

Told by William Hutton, Stage Driver
to Patience Stapleton.

Guess I swore when I told her to take a
she said she was only used to current wine.
I told her this was a country of red blood,
not home made poison. She tore up a
white petticoat, making me turn my back,
but I see it was trimmed with a sort of
kind of home made tatting, all the same,
which must cost her a lot of work; and
she bound up my shoulder, plucking the
bandage with the breast pin the picture
of Washington on it; then, after another
pull at my back, I started the team along.

The go was out of them and they ambled
slow enough, but I was sure our little burden was over for the night, at least
as far as the four was concerned. A ways
on the trail I saw something black which
the big white shield at. The stirrup must be broken or he wouldn't be there but scattered all for miles.

"Do you think that's him?" asked the old
lady, awestruck.
"What's left," I answered, throwing the
horses back into the road; "I couldn't drive
him."

"Well, we're going to stop to take him in,
it's only chivalry."
"Had enough of taking up
corpses for burial when he was chasing us
back there?"

"Don't make any difference, he's right
close and I couldn't get him by if I then
knew he was in the road."
"On account of the knots; all right, old lady; besides I'd like to see what he looked like he had never had a horse."

We got down and turned him over, he
was lying on his face begrimed with dust
and blood, and the man was in his
right on his head and she pulled that off
when I went back to the coach for the jug
of water I had. I was sure, though, that man had long black hair, and an iron grip
up, he was a brute!

"His name," she said, while I poured
water down his throat, then of a sudden he lifted his great black eye, staring with
the strangest look I ever saw right into her
face.

"It's little Dick," I cried without thinking. "I know his face as familiar. Once leave him to be at ease. I spoke you can manage his legs!"

"Yes," she said, though quivering up-
per and lower lip, "he's a brave fellow;
I never saw a man braver."
We got him in the coach, and she lifted
his head on her lap, making him comfortable as a mother might.

"You ain't going to stay in here all
alone with that carter," I said, here
enough.

"No, the first time, Mister Driver,"
she said, with the most face I ever saw
on any one, even by an open grave. "Many long night I've prayed by his little bed
that God would spare him; he's been
my prayer, which, after this awful night,
I can most wish he hadn't done. It's little the boy that ran away—my son Richard."

The words came slow, like each was a heart pang. I shut the stage door on her sorrow that was too great for an outsider to
witness, too pitiful, most, for human beings
to bear.

CHAPTER II.

We wrapped the renegade in blankets
when we took him into the stage station,
hence, where we arrived some hours late,
the folks thinking the boys had got us. I made 'em think he was hurt by my in a little while we had, and they never knew
no different. She took care of him in a tent in the corner, which I saw, and I discuss her for a matter of two weeks, being led up to Denver with my word, which
didn't make me feel none too sure in the
her likely son. Yet when I was driving again, and about to mount the box, having
asked after her, but not wishing to see
him, she came out in her old skulldie bonnet
to ask for the matter of a few minutes talk
with me. I followed her like a lamb.

"Then soldier man you've got for a load
in getting' liker," she says, "you can spare
time to see Richard?"

"Which I ain't no great desire to do,"
I said.

"I know that, but you've helped me
once, Mister Hutton, and I helped
you. I am proud to be acquainted with you."

"Same here, marm," and I went into the
tent, where the renegade was lying on a
bed of straw, looking white enough, his hair
jabbed off, his chin covered with a scraggly
beard.

"Hello Bill! old Bill of Red Gulch," he
grinned.

"He ain't hung yet," I said, and like, and glanced.

"I tipped off them queer looks," said the
old lady, "though he didn't like it none too
well."

"Spilled me for a picturesque frontiers-
man, he got me good, but not wishing to see
him, she came out in her old skulldie bonnet
to ask for the matter of a few minutes talk
with me. I followed her like a lamb."

"Then soldier man you've got for a load
in getting' liker," she says, "you can spare
time to see Richard?"

"Which I ain't no great desire to do,"
I said.

"Same here, marm," and I went into the
tent, where the renegade was lying on a

grinned.

THE INTELLIGENCER.

BELEVEILLE, FRIDAY, JUNE 23.

THE GRIFF CONVENTION.

The great gathering of the Liberal party at Ottawa has resulted in a very little, that those who took part in the proceedings must see as soon as the effect produced by the eloquence of the party orators has died away, begin to wonder why they were called to gather.

Nothing of importance was accomplished, not even a popular cry was invented. The old ground was gone over with no particular vigor, but, while local associations of lay were made, the party was not freed from the policy of "valued treason," which still hangs, like a millstone, around the neck of the organization.

The failure of the party to take any action on the Manitoba school question is a distinct triumph for the Government, whose course Mr. Laurier was forced, by the intransigent sail of the renegade Tarte, into endorsing.

The Ottawa convention has proved a distinct failure, in that it has demonstrated lack of unity and unanimity of purpose, instead of the opposite, in character, of the Liberal party. Without unity and a good policy with a "big push" behind it, the followers of Mr. Laurier must feel that they are doomed to five more years of seclusion from office after the next election.

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

Todd is Ready to Meet Clunk. Belleville—Maud D. Reported to have lowered her Record to 3:33—Bradford's Crack Fishing—Cricket League.

East Toronto cricket club plays Campbellton on August 18th, Stirling August 15th and Belleville August 18th.

Mr. John Bell's party North has arrived from Deseronto, where she has had a new cabin trunk put on, which will add to her comfort and strength.

The cricket match between Pictou and Peterborough, which was to have taken place here today, has been decided off, the latter club having made arrangements to play a match with another club.

The Stirling cricket club will go to Campbellton on Tuesday next, instead of Wednesday. The team, with the exception of one or two changes, will be the same as played against Belleville. The next league match to be played at Stirling will take place on July 18th, between Pictou and the local club.

Wm. Morton, Secretary of the Belleville golf club, today received a telegram from Wm. Todd, of Nova Scotia, stating that his money was ready and that he was anxious to meet F. Clunk.

The date of the match has been changed from Friday, June 30 to Monday, July 3rd. The match will be the most interesting of its kind ever played in Canada.

The London Advertiser of yesterday says: "The Maple Leafs of Guelph have not been beaten this season, and they came yesterday determined, if possible, to keep up their record. They have a good team and a crack pitcher in Bradford. His delivery is very speedy and his curves catch. Powers caught him well, but the field work was not by any means equal to that of the Leafs."

It was stated on the street today that the well known man, Maud D., formerly 2:28 in Quebec yesterday. The report could not be confirmed, as it was not known if he had received any word from the mare up to going to press. It is likely that the record made yesterday of 2:22 at Andover, that Dollie O., has been confounded with Maud D., both mares having been eligible to the three minute class at the opening of the season.

A Change of Name.

TORONTO, June 19.—The announcement has just been made of an important business change in this city, which will be noted with interest throughout the Dominion. The business of Dr. Smith & Co., manufacturers of Dodd's Kidney Pills, Anti-Dandruff, and other medicinal compounds, has been sold to a company to be known as The Dodd's Medicine Co., Ltd. There is no change in the management, but the formation of the company was deemed necessary and wise, because of the enormous increase of business, and the new name was chosen to identify the company with its most popular remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills.

The company has found it necessary to enlarge its premises and build a large shipping warehouse, to accommodate the additions to its working staff and to give increased facilities for shipping. Dodd's Kidney Pills are pouring in daily from all parts of Canada and the United States, and the company finds it difficult to keep up the supply equal to the demand.

CHEESE AT CHICAGO.

CANADA FAR AHEAD AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

The Dominion Wins 130 out of 135 Medals for Factory Cheese—A Fine Showing.

The superiority of Canadian to American cheese is an old story. It was demonstrated at the Centennial Exposition in 1876 and has since been frequently demonstrated upon various occasions.

The fact that Canada has come to look upon victory over her neighbors in competition for the title of "the best cheese in the world" is a gratifying, however, something to be proud of.

The exhibition at Chicago, for which our neighbors made extensive preparations. With every showing, attention on the side of their appearance, the quality of their products, and the quality of their cheese.

The exhibition of dairy products at Chicago is probably the largest ever held in the world. It is certainly by far the greatest ever held in this continent.

The fact that Canada has won 130 out of 135 medals for factory cheese is a fine showing for the World's Fair authorities. These were to be held in June, July, September and October.

HOME RULE BILL CHANGES.

IMPORTANT ALTERATIONS IN THE FINANCIAL CLAUSES.

Ireland to Collect and Manage Taxation Except Customs and Excise—Duties on Imports and Exports to be levied by the British Government.

LONDON, June 23.—In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Chamberlain announced that the Government had decided to make the financial clauses of the Irish Home Rule bill.

He proposed a provisional term of six months for the financial arrangements. No change in managing or collecting the taxation was proposed. The Government would be empowered to establish new taxes.

The contribution to the Imperial Exchequer would be one-third of the assessed value of the whole yield of any taxes imposed upon Ireland by the Imperial Parliament. Contribution and the whole management would be revised.

It would be provided that Ireland should collect and manage taxation with the exception of the customs and excise duties.

Mr. John Redmond, Parliamentary member for Waterford City, gave notice that he would oppose the clause preventing the Irish Parliament from collecting and managing taxation, and would move for its amendment.

Mr. Chamberlain said that the clause was not intended to prevent the Irish Parliament from collecting and managing taxation, but to prevent it from imposing new taxes.

The clause was intended to prevent the Irish Parliament from imposing new taxes, but to prevent it from imposing new taxes.

DROWNED IN A BARREL.

A Little Boy is Found Dead in a Well.

The four-year-old son of Mr. Wm. Lewis, River Valley, Sidney, went to a spring near the house for a drink, one day this week, a barrel being stuck in the ground, and the boy, who was playing with it, fell into it, and the water in it.

In attempting to get the water the little fellow slipped and went head down, his legs caught on the edge of the barrel. Being unable to extricate himself, and no one being near to help him, he soon drowned.

The body was found by a neighbor, and was taken to the house of the father, who is now in a state of great grief.

SUNK AT SEA.

The British Iron-Clad

"Victoria" Sunk by

the "Camperdown."

400 LIVES LOST

Vic-Admiral Tryon Commander

in-Chief, Goes Down

With His Ship.

DETAILS OF THE DISASTER.

LONDON, June 23.—The British battleship

Victoria has foundered off Tripoli.

More than 200 persons were drowned.

LONDON, June 23.—A most terrible

calamity has befallen the British battleship

Victoria, flagship of the Mediterranean

squadron, and hundreds of lives have been lost.

The Victoria, which flew the flag of Vice

Admiral Sir George Tryon, K. C. B., was

run into off Tripoli by the British battleship

Camperdown, also belonging to the Mediterranean squadron, and under the command of Capt. Charles Johnston.

The Victoria had an enormous hole made

in her side, through which the water poured

in torrents. The immense hull of the Victoria once began to settle and before

those on board or could cut loose their

small boats she went to the bottom,

carrying down with her nearly all on board.

The first report of the disaster started

about 200 men were drowned, but later

despatches show that the loss of life was far

greater, not less than four hundred of the officers and crew of the Victoria having

gone down with their ship.

The Victoria was a twin screw battleship

of 10,700 tons and 14,000 horse power. She was mounted with five guns.

The Camperdown was also a first class

gunship, with a displacement of 10,000

tons and 11,500 horse power and carries

ten guns.

Admiral Sir George Tryon was commander in chief of the Mediterranean

squadron. He was made a Vice Admiral Aug.

20, 1892.

LATER.—Rear Admiral Albert H. Mark-

ham, of the Trafalgar, the flag ship of the Rear Admiral in the Mediterranean, has been telegraphed to the Admiral from Tripoli,

Syria, under date of today, as follows:—

"I regret to report that while manœuvring

off Tripoli this afternoon, the Victoria

and Camperdown collided. The Victoria

sank in fifteen minutes, in 15 fathoms of water; she lies bottom uppermost. The Camperdown ran struck the Victoria

forward of the turret, on the starboard side.

Twenty-one officers were drowned. Two hundred and fifty men were saved.

The injury to the Camperdown has not yet

been fully ascertained, but it is serious, and

will necessitate her going on dock for re-

RUSSO-AMERICAN TREATY.

GEORGE KENNAN HAS A POOR OPINION OF IT.

Washington, June 27.—The Sun has an interview with George Kennan, the writer and lecturer on Russian subjects, now in Belleville, giving his opinion on the recently signed Russo-American treaty. In regard to the part of article 5, which provides that a person surrendered by either country shall not be tried for any political offense committed before his extradition or for any other offense than that for which he was extradited, or for any offense that he committed prior to the date upon which the treaty became effective, he said that he thought it was a poor one.

This would appear to guard against the possibility of a trial of an extradited person upon a charge made after he had been arrested, but it is not so simple as it seems. It will be very difficult for the United States to satisfy itself that this provision is intended to do so.

Those who know anything about the Russian constitution know that they are opened and closed as the Government prefers. It is not so simple as it seems. It will be very difficult for the United States to satisfy itself that this provision is intended to do so.

A Prompt Cure.

GENTLEMEN.—Having suffered over two years with constipation, and the doctors not having helped me, I consulted to try B.B.B. and before I used one bottle I was cured. I can also recommend it for such headache.

A Close Examination.

Many symptoms of Canadian cholera are similar to those of the real Asiatic cholera, such as vomiting, purging, intense prostration, etc. For all these symptoms Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is a safe and sure specific. Price 30 cents at druggists.

A Wonderful Cure.

BEHAVIOR, WEDNESDAY JUNE 28

THE HAY TRADE WITH ENGLAND.

Hay is scarce in Great Britain, at $40 a ton. This, of course, will render it a very expensive material to keep live stock there through the next winter. Hay is in progress in England, but the crop is poor. In Ontario the crop is one of the best we have had for years, and no doubt our hay will be in demand in the old country now and all through the fall and winter, and prices will be high, as Great Britain consumes a great amount of imported hay, and the Canadian article is coming rapidly to the fore. But if farmers here intend to realize the best results in hay exportation, it must be done more systematically than has hitherto been the case. It appears that a great many farmers last year and this have been shipping on their own account instead of through regular dealers, resulting in a disastrous collapse in the hay trade of England. The Trade Directory, discussing the subject, says that had the hay been shipped through the regular channels of trade, it would gradually have found its way to the consumer on the other side, and a steady line of business would have been maintained with a steady advance in value of which the consignments of farmers and the shipments of regular exporters arrived on the other side at one and the same time, necessitating a big slaughter in prices before the goods could be worked off. Some of the wisest shippers put their hay into store on the other side, and held it until the demoralized market righted itself with very satisfactory results, having received a price of it at a good profit. The present scramble for hay in England and on the continent shows that the terrible break some time ago could have been averted if the goods had found their way to the consuming centers abroad through regular channels.

The Greatest Cure

One of the greatest discoveries ever made in the medical line for the cure of scald diseases and dandruff, is now getting introduced into this country, and is being sold by the drug trade. There is nothing more nifty than a scurfy scalp, and nothing more disagreeable than dandruff falling out of one's hair. It is a scourge to the fair sex, and a great deal of trouble is caused by it. A specialist—one of the world's greatest specialists and specialists in scald diseases, of Vienna, Austria, has been successful in discovering Dandruffine, which is now on sale everywhere. Dandruffine works quick and sure, and is at the same time most desirable to have. Ask your druggist for it, and you will get it. Tell your friends that all you can do is how successful it works.

DEPRECIATION IN SILVER.

AN URGENT APPEAL FOR A PROMPT RESOLUTION OF CONGRESS.

The action of the Indian Government in causing a fall in silver. The Washington and California Presses. The purchase of silver to be continued.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Two hours were consumed by the Cabinet in discussing the silver question and the matter of the pending legislation. Although the discussion, it is said, took a wide range it was practically brought back to the silver and the monetary point that the executive had no power in the premises, Congress alone being able to deal with the measure.

It was plain to the Cabinet that the monetary purchase of silver must be continued or else Congress must be convened in special session immediately. As the President had decided to deal with the financial situation and manifest no intention of changing the purpose, the project of an earlier session of Congress was dropped. So far as the continuation of the purchase of silver under the Sherman law was concerned, it was pointed out that the Congress would convene in extra session in September, the intervening time the silver to be purchased would be only 300,000 ounces, compared with the amount in view of the previous purchase. That the best way to deal with the situation was to extend the course of action for two months was generally agreed to.

The action of the Government of India has been to reduce the demand for an early session of Congress, and this view of the situation was presented to Secretary. The measure, however, by many of the congressional leaders and by numerous telegrams from all across the country, before going to the Cabinet Secretary Carlisle received a telegram from London mentioning a further decline in the price of silver. Information obtained from the Treasury Department after the last fiscal year was 150,000 ounces of silver, and the amount of silver in the market was estimated at 40,000 ounces. The price of silver was 40 cents, which was the price at which the Government of India continued to use 100,000 ounces of silver purchased last year, leaving 40,000 ounces of silver for use in the arts of the other countries of the world.

The highest price ever attained by silver in the United States was in the month of January of the present year, when the price was 71 cents. The silver dollar was then worth 90 cents. Since that time the price has fallen to 60 cents. When the Sherman act went into effect in 1890, the price of silver was 70 cents. Since that time the price has fallen to 60 cents. The price of silver is now 60 cents. The price of silver is now 60 cents.

Since 1893 India has coined silver to the value of 40,000,000 ounces. Since the coinage of the United States and the United States has coined 40,000,000 ounces of silver. The price of silver is now 60 cents. The price of silver is now 60 cents.

LONDON, June 28.—In the House of Commons yesterday Mr. Lecky Ennals asked the Government whether or not the value of the rupee having been actually raised by the closing of the Indian mints to the free coinage of silver, compensation would be made to those persons in India who had contracted to pay in silver, and whether or not the Government would be prepared to make such compensation.

Mr. Gladstone replied that all measures of this kind were a matter of expediency, and unless current transactions were not affected, it had never been the case that compensation should be made. He was confident that the Government of India was not at all anxious to make such compensation. He was confident that the Government of India was not at all anxious to make such compensation.

Intending Purchasers of Strawberries
for canning purposes would do
well to purchase their supply at
once, as the recent hot, dry
weather has very materially affected the strawberry crop. The first couple or three pickings are always the best. Place your

try and send you only good
fruit at a low price.

Guard Against Cholera.

Keep the blood pure, the stomach in good

working order, and the entire system free

from morbid effluvia by using Burdock

Blood Bitters, which cleanses, strengthens

and tones the whole system. Cholera

cannot attack the healthy.

Timely Wisdom.

Great and timely wisdom is shown by keeping Dr. Foster's Extract of Wild

Strawberry on hand. It has no equal for

cholera, cholera morbus, diarrhoea, dysentery,

colic, cramps and all summer complaints of

looseness of the bowels.

Dysentery or Indigestion is occasioned by

the want of action in the bilious system, or

irregularity in the stomach to secrete the gastric

juice, without which digestion cannot go on; also
